OBJECTS AND REASONS

This Bill for the Property Tax Act (BPTA) is a comprehensive reform of the valuation and taxation of property in Anguilla. The following points should be noted.

- (1) The BPTA does not permit the taxation of land.
- (2) The BPTA replaces the existing but obsolete Valuation and Rating Act (VRA), which calculates tax by taking external dimensions of buildings and multiplying them by a factor based on condition. The VRA takes no account of two of the main determinants of value, namely, location and improvements other than buildings. It is unfair that a building on or near the beach is valued the same as a property away from the beach. Furthermore it is unfair that improvements (structures such as fences, patios, pools on residential property and loading docks and other structures on commercial property) are not subject to property tax. The BPTA rectifies this situation.
- (3) The BPTA also repeals the Villa Rental Business Regulation Act (VRBRA), which is a combined property tax and licensing act, and replaces it with the property tax imposed under the BPTA, which takes into account both location as well as all improvements. The VRBRA does not cover alien property other than villas. The BPTA covers all alien property. Under the VRBRA aliens who own villas pay a higher property tax or a special licence. While the property of alien land holders will be valued on the same basis as all other property in Anguilla, the BPTA permits the government to apply a higher tax rate to that property.
- (4) The Bill also recognizes separately-owned immoveable improvements (the most common example being the house and associated improvements built on family land by a family member who does not own the land) and provides for their valuation and taxation.
- (5) The Bill enables mass appraisal of property, which is the latest approach to valuing property for taxation purposes. Mass appraisal removes much of the subjectivity and guesswork out of valuing property.

Part 1 Interpretation and Application

Clause 1 defines key terms used in the Act.

Clause 2 limits the application of the Act to improvements to land registered under the Registered Land Act.

Part 2 Administration

This Part sets out the scheme of administration of the Act. The task of valuation, which is assigned to the Senior Valuation Officer and his or her staff of valuation officers, is separated from the collection of taxes, which is the task of the Comptroller. To ensure the Comptroller has complete authority, the Comptroller and Deputy Comptroller are ex officio valuation officers.

Part 3 Valuation

Clause 7 provides for the valuation of all improvements, whether the improvements are subject to taxation or not. There are three exceptions, those improvements set out in Schedule 1 and those set out in subclauses 7(2) and 7(3) respectively. Subclause 7(2) excludes from valuation any improvement (such as a new building or addition to a building) that is under construction until it is, or is capable of being, occupied or used for a purpose other than construction. Subclause 7(3) temporarily excludes from valuation any improvement designated in the regulations under clause 24(3), which provides that improvements that are exempt (such as those owned by the Crown or a government agency) can be postponed if it should happen that there are insufficient resources to complete a general valuation.

Clause 8 provides that all valuations are to be in accordance with the value determined under the regulations on the reference date, which is the benchmark date for determining values. The reference date is established by the Minister by regulation under clause 24(1).

Clause 9 provides that improvements shall be valued in relation to the parcel of land where they are located.

Clause 10 excludes the land component of a condominium from valuation.

Clause 11 provides that improvements on Crown land or land of a government agency that is leased to a person who pays rent or other valuable consideration are to be valued as if the lessee owned the freehold.

Clause 12 provides that, when the Crown or a government agency has an interest in private land, any improvement on that land is to be valued as if the Crown or Government agency did not have an interest.

Clause 13 provides that improvements on private land which is held under a lease by an alien land holder are to be valued as if he or she owned the freehold.

Clause 14 permits the Minister to establish classes of improvements, one of the purposes of which is to permit different tax rates to be imposed under clause 58 on different classes of improvements. In this way the Government will be able to determine how the burden of taxation will fall on various groups of taxpayers.

Clause 15 provides for the right of a valuation officer to enter onto property and inspect improvements and to exercise various rights in relation to the inspection.

Clause 16 enables a valuation officer to require a member of the public to furnish information and clause 17 enables the Senior Valuation Officer to require information from the head of any department of Government. These provisions will permit the Senior Valuation Officer to keep the information on the valuation roll up to date. For example, under clause 16 the Senior Valuation Officer could request particulars of the supply of piped water from the Water Corporation or particulars of electrical connections from Anglec so as to determine when a building was occupied or capable of occupation.

Clause 18 requires a valuation officer to permit a person to see the valuation record for his or her improvement and to explain how the valuation was arrived at.

Part 4 Valuation Rolls and Certificates of Valuation

Division 1 Contents of Valuation Rolls and Certificates of Valuation

Clause 19 enumerates the information required to be on the valuation roll.

Clause 20 sets out the person who is to be enrolled on the valuation roll in relation to various improvements that are liable to valuation.

Clause 21 sets out the contents of a certificate of valuation.

Clause 22 provides for the retention of most certificates of valuation of improvements on property owned by the Government or a government agency.

Division 2 General Valuation and Annual Valuation Rolls

Clause 23 sets out the definition of "business hours" for the purposes of Division 2 of Part 4.

Clause 24 provides for making general valuations from time to time. The Minister begins the process by ordering a general valuation of improvements in Anguilla to be done and a draft valuation roll to be prepared in accordance with Division 2 of Part 4. In doing so, the Minister must establish a reference date in relation to which all improvements will be valued and specify the financial year for which the valuation roll that is eventually produced is to be prepared. Special provisions in subclauses 24(3) and (4) permit the Minister to exclude from valuation any improvement designated in the regulations. The Minister will exercise this power to designate improvements if it should happen that there are insufficient resources to complete a general valuation.

Clause 25 provides that, when a regulation under clause 24 is made, the Senior Valuation Officer must commence the general valuation and the preparation of the draft valuation roll.

Under clause 26 the draft valuation roll must be ready not later than July 1 of the year preceding the financial year for which the valuation roll is to be prepared and a notice must be published in a newspaper of general circulation in Anguilla and the Gazette giving notice, among other things, that the valuation roll has been prepared and is available for inspection in the Inland Revenue Department.

Concurrently with notice under clause 26, clause 27 provides that the Senior Valuation Officer must make the draft valuation roll available for inspection at the Inland Revenue Department until the certified valuation roll is made available, which must occur not later than the following December 31 (clause 31).

Clause 28 provides that the Senior Valuation Officer must send out certificates of valuation to each person (other than the Government or a government agency) enrolled on the valuation roll in relation to the improvements. What constitutes sending will be set out in the regulations. Clause 29 provides that sending the notice is actual notice.

The sending out of the certificates of valuation under clause 28 triggers a right of the enrolled person to object, for which provision is made under Part 5. Errors, misdescriptions and omissions in the draft valuation roll will inevitably occur. Sometimes they are not noticed by enrolled persons. When such an error, misdescription or omission is discovered by a valuation officer in the revision period, clause 30 requires the officer to amend the draft valuation roll and to issue a certificates of valuation. Sending a certificate of valuation to the enrolled person under clause 30 gives that enrolled person the right to file an objection under Part 5.

When the draft valuation roll is revised, the Senior Valuation Officer certifies it (clause 31) and notice of the certification of the valuation roll must be published (clause 32) and the valuation roll must be made available for inspection by the public (clause 33) in a manner very similar to that applicable to the draft valuation roll.

Clause 34 provides that, except to the extent that valuations on the certified valuation roll may be amended from time to time under the Act, the valuations of improvements on that valuation roll apply thereafter until December 31 immediately preceding the financial year specified by regulation under clause 24 as the year for which the next general valuation is to be done and a valuation roll is to be prepared.

The Senior Valuation Officer is required to prepare a valuation roll for each financial year not later than December 31 of the previous financial year (clause 35(1)).

Clause 36 provides that, when proceedings in relation to draft valuation rolls and annual valuation rolls under Part 5 are not final, the step reached in the proceedings must be reflected on the valuation roll.

Clause 37 requires that each annual valuation roll be made available at the Inland Revenue Department.

Division 3 Amendment of Annual Valuation Rolls

Clause 38 deals with errors, misdescriptions and omissions in an annual valuation roll. It is the same as clause 30, which applies to errors, misdescriptions and omissions on the draft valuation roll in the revision period, except that clause 38 is subject to clause 39, which limits amendments that affect the value of an improvement to specified categories, such as new improvements or additions to improvements, damage to improvements, repair or reconstruction of damaged improvements, among others. In effect, clause 39 allows amendments to the annual valuation roll to keep it minimally up to date while protecting the basic integrity of the valuation roll certified under clause 31.

Part 5 Objections and Review of Objections

This Part provides that an enrolled person or a person who ought to be enrolled on the valuation roll in relation to an improvement, who files a objection in the proper form within 30 days after a certificate of valuation has been sent, has the right to—

- an administrative review of his or her objection
- a review by the Valuation Review Board of those grounds of objection that are not resolved administratively

The fact that an objection is under review does not relieve the person from the obligation to pay the tax and any interest and penalties (clause 40).

A person who becomes an enrolled person in relation to improvements while an objection is being dealt with is entitled to become a party to the proceedings in relation to the improvements (clause 42).

A valuation officer is required to make changes to the valuation roll that are necessary to reflect the resolution of an objection or a decision of the Board and to send out a certificate of valuation when appropriate (clause 43).

Division 2 sets out details of how objections are made and reviewed administratively. Division 3 sets out the procedure for review by the Valuation Review Board, whose constitution, procedures, powers and duties are set out in Schedule 2.

Part 6 Exemptions

Clause 53 lists a number of exemptions from tax including the following—

- improvements on land owned by the Crown or a government agency
- if the land on which the improvements are located is owned by or held in trust for a religious body, improvements—
 - any building used chiefly for divine service, religious worship, religious education and related religious activities,
 - used in connection with those activities, and
 - used chiefly as a residence for a member of clergy or his family and includes any garage or other improvements used in connection with the residence
- improvements on land owned or leased by the National Trust*
- improvements on burial grounds and public cemeteries
- improvements on land owned or held in trust by a charitable body and used chiefly for charitable purposes

- improvements on land owned by a private school or assisted private school and chiefly used by it*
- an improvement on land subject to a conservation easement or conservation restriction agreement or that is a protected area under the Biodiversity and Heritage Conservation Act, 2008*.

Clause 53(1)(j) also allows for the making of regulations to exempt an improvement on land owned by a non-profit company incorporated under the Companies Act and used chiefly for the purposes for which it was incorporated.

All of the property listed above, other than that indicated by an asterisk, is exempt only if the person claiming the exemption owns the property.

Clause 54 provides for the reduction of the taxable value of improvements on a parcel of land or a prescribed class or classes of improvements in a particular financial year, subject to approval by resolution of the House of Assembly.

Clause 55 makes it an offence for a person enrolled or who ought to be enrolled in relation to an improvement not to report to the Senior Valuation Officer that the improvement is not or has ceased to be exempt or that the application of the exemption to the improvement has changed.

Part 7 Taxation of Improvements and Recovery of Tax

Division 1 Interpretation

Clause 56 sets out the interpretation provisions applicable to this Part. It should be noted that tax arrears, interest and penalties from the Valuation and Rating Act will be carried over to the BPTA.

Division 2 Imposition of Tax

Under clause 57(1), a person is liable as a taxpayer if the person is enrolled in relation to an improvement and the person subsequently becomes an enrolled person in relation to the improvement. When two or more persons are liable as taxpayers in relation to an improvement, their liability is joint and several (clause 57(2)).

Tax in a financial year is deemed to have been imposed on January 1 of that year, no matter when it is actually imposed (clause 58).

Clause 59 provides that the Minister may, subject to approval by a resolution of the House of Assembly, establish the tax rates payable on improvements or classes of improvements. In this regard, the classification of improvements under clause 14 will determine how the burden of tax falls on various taxpayers.

Clause 60 allows the Minister to make regulations phasing in increases or decreases in tax, subject to approval by resolution of the House of Assembly.

Division 3 Demand Notices

Clause 61 sets out what must be in a demand notice.

Clause 62 requires that the demand notices be prepared and sent.

Clause 63 provides for the amendment of demand notices when a valuation roll is amended.

Division 4 Payment of Tax

One of the most important features of the Bill is the introduction of flexible payment arrangements, which can be established by regulation. Those arrangements may include discounts for early payment (clause 65) and instalment payment arrangements (clause 66). Unless one of these arrangements is made, the tax in any financial year is due on June 30 of that year (clause 64(1)).

Penalties for late payment may be imposed by regulation (clause 67).

Clause 68 gives the Minister, with the approval of the Executive Council, the power to defer the collection of taxes by regulation generally or in favour of a class of taxpayers or by agreement in an individual case for a period not exceeding 3 years.

Division 5 Recovery of Tax

Clauses 69 to 75 deal with recovery of tax. Clause 69 provides that these rights are in addition to the rights of recovery under the Inland Revenue Act, any other Act and at common law.

Clause 70(1) provides that tax on an improvement on a freehold is a first charge on the parcel of land where the improvement is located. Clause 70(2) provides that tax on an improvement on a leasehold is a first charge on the leasehold where the improvement is located. This means that the land can be sold for unpaid taxes.

When an improvement on a parcel of land is exempt from taxation and another improvement on the parcel of land is taxable, the tax imposed on the taxable improvement is recoverable against the entire parcel of land (clause 71).

When an improvement straddles the property line of two or more parcels of land, the tax is recoverable under the lien against all the parcels (clause 72).

When a separately-owned immovable improvement is located on a parcel of land, the tax imposed on the separately-owned immovable improvement is recoverable against the entire parcel of land (clause 73).

Clause 74 makes tax on an improvement a first charge on any money payable under an insurance policy for accidental loss or damage to the improvement by fire or any other cause. This has important consequences for the payment of money under an insurance policy for accidental loss or damage to an improvement.

Clause 75 permits the Comptroller, on behalf of the Crown, to execute a release of liability in relation to a lien under clause 70 or 74 when any tax, interest and penalty due has been fully paid.

Part 8 Miscellaneous

Clause 76 enumerates the regulation-making powers under the Act. Of particular note is the power to make regulations, in relation to the first general valuation which is to take place in 2013, modifying the Act to shorten the time lines to permit the general valuation to be done in a much shorter time than would be the case if the Act were followed.

Clause 77 makes it an offence to obstruct a person in the exercise of a power conferred or the performance of a duty imposed on him or her by or under this Act.

Clause 78 makes the limitation for commencing a prosecution for an offence under this Act 4 years.

Clause 79 provides that neither an error, misdescription or omissions in a valuation roll, certificates of valuation or demand nor a failure of a public officer to perform a duty or to perform it within the time required does not invalidate the valuation roll, tax roll, certificates of valuation, tax notice or amended certificates of valuation or tax notice or the liability of a person to pay tax in relation to improvements when required under the Act.

Clause 80 provides for the citation of the Act by its short title and clause 81 provides for the coming into force of the Act or any provision thereof.

Clause 82 repeals the existing Valuation and Rating Act and its regulations and the Villa Rental Business Regulation Act.

Clause 83 permits the minister to make transitional regulations.

Clause 84 sets out consequential amendments to the Inland Revenue Department Act.
